This ‘Welcome to Waiouru’ booklet aims to provide a fresh perspective on Waiouru and all that the location has to offer. It is designed specifically to support your arrival and assist you in becoming a member of our community. Our community includes single soldiers, married unaccompanied soldiers, soldiers with families and dependants, civilians working for and supporting the Army and our local civilian community.

Some of you will be arriving for the first time, others will be returning to Waiouru. Although much remains the same, there are developments occurring and the community commitment to continuous improvement in our environment as part of the wider Ruapehu District remains constant. I welcome all of you to Waiouru and trust that you will enjoy, benefit from and contribute to the Waiouru community.

Waiouru is an interesting and dynamic place. It is the home of the New Zealand Army, a place with significance for all who have passed through here and the place to which we owe much in our own careers. It can be a physically and socially challenging place in which to live, but it can also be a place to embrace and enjoy. The small community environment has the advantages of support and safety. The single focus of our community provides us with flexibility, allowing us to coordinate activities and achieve a sensible balance between work, family, sports, culture and social activities. Mutual support between the Army and community has significant advantages for both. Our peculiar situation, small town New Zealand with a single major employer providing a wide range of support facilities, is unique and the envy of many. There is much to do in Waiouru and in the Central Plateau. There are a wide range of recreational, social, cultural and sports organisations and facilities and ready access to a varied array of opportunities. I encourage you to participate actively in the community and enjoy all that Waiouru has to offer.

Welcome to Waiouru. It is a place with a great deal to offer and we look forward to your involvement in our community.

History of Waiouru
The idea that Waiouru is a bleak, cold, barren and rudimentary Army Base is a mistaken notion of the early war years. Private housing at the junction of State Highway One and Provincial Highway 49 bears testimony to Waiouru’s growth.

Waiouru is no longer merely a staging post for food and fuel, but a pleasant stopover with tangible scenery and recreational benefits. The community is self-contained, having developed facilities such as a school, churches and a medical treatment facility. It also boasts some of the best sporting facilities in the central North Island.

The Meaning of Waiouru
The name Waiouru is derived from “Te-Wahi-Oru-Nga-Tangata” which translates into: “The Place which all must pass through.” This is indicative of its geographical location to the traveller of yesteryear, who in their northward or southward journey travelled a route now known as the Desert Road and others in transit from the Hawkes Bay to Pipiriki on the Whanganui River.

Early History of Waiouru
Neither the Ngati Tuwharetoa nor The Ati-Haunui-A-Paparangi can pinpoint sub-tribes in the Waiouru area, however, both claim ancestral rights. It is however appropriate to say Waiouru is part of the Ngati-Tuwharetoa as their boundaries extend from north of Taupo to Bulls. The Ati-Haunui-A-Paparangi of the Wanganui district has an eastern boundary on the western bank of the Whangehau River. It would seem that the area is unique in that it appears not to have had a substantiated sub-tribe. Too cold to settle in, perhaps?
Settlement by pastoralists dates from the 1870's. The Studholme Brothers established the Morimutu Station, which included in its area the Camp's present location. In 1905 the Morton Brothers built the Homestead which was moved to its current location, at the foot of the hill where the Officers Mess now stands.

The New Zealand Army's first involvement with the area took the form of a reconnaissance conducted in October 1932. The Servicemen involved, Captains Parkinson and Park, reported that it provided an ideal campsite and artillery range.

From January 1937 onward an artillery field firing camp was held each summer. An initial request to establish a camp was declined. However, with the outbreak of World War Two, land was purchased in November 1939 and a camp was established in 1940 under the first Camp Commandant Colonel C.G.Powles, CMG, DSO.

Waiouru is the largest of the New Zealand Army's installations. The 63,000 hectare training area runs alongside State Highway One for 35 km and its widest point reaches from Ruapehu's snowline to the Rangitikei River headwaters, approximately 30 km to the east. It includes the Moawhango Dam (part of the Tongariro Power Development Scheme) which is fed from the waters of 22 streams on the southern slopes of Mount Ruapehu by aqueduct under the Desert Road. The training area is used for live firing, manoeuvres and basic training.

The Great Outdoors
Due to Waiouru's location, there is easy access to the mountains and National Park which boasts a number of tramps and walks. There are also large biking tracks in close vicinity and easy access to ski fields. Call into the Ohakune Information Centre or phone 06 385 8427 for more information.

Community Services Office

The Community Services Office would like to welcome you to Waiouru. Our office is situated at the Community Centre Complex, opposite Hot Shots Four Square and next to Threads. We are here to assist you with both settling in and living in Waiouru. We encourage you to come in for a chat, find out what we’re about, have a coffee and/or ask any questions you might have. The office has a wealth of information and if we can’t answer your question, we will find someone who can.

Waiouru has a lot to offer, and we appreciate that moving to a new town can be challenging for some and so we are here to help you adjust and enjoy the benefits of this unique, yet exciting community. Owing to the Army posting cycle, ours is a transient community, so there are always new groups and activities starting up in Waiouru. Keep an eye on the community notice board for the latest events. Being committed to making Waiouru an even better place to be, we welcome suggestions you may have to improve our community, and we can assist if you wish to start up a club, group, business etc.

In addition to what Waiouru itself has to offer, the central location makes for easy travelling to a number of towns and cities, large and small, and being on the doorstep of the National Park means there is easy access to outdoor activities in both summer and winter.

This office also provides a number of services that you will find in this resource. These include photocopying, faxing, laminating, the organisation of school holiday programmes, social events, activities, budgeting and agency visits.

This book outlines most, but not all, of what Waiouru has to offer. We suggest you read it to appreciate the range of opportunities and benefits Waiouru has to offer you and your family and keep it handy for easy reference in the future.

We are open 8.00am to 4.30pm Monday to Friday, so feel free to drop in or give us a call on 387 5531 or 387 5532. Once again, welcome and we hope you enjoy everything Waiouru has to offer.

There are great prizes to be won so start preparing your garden ASAP. Tenants are also obliged to have their chimney swept by a recognised chimney sweep each year. However, Facilities Management strongly recommend that chimneys in regular use are swept every 6 to 8 weeks, especially when damp and/or native wood is being burnt and that you log a call to Transfield to inspect your chimney prior to winter. This inspection is free of charge and ensures chimneys are safe to use.

Firewood
Make getting your wood supply for the winter A PRIORITY! It is difficult to gauge how much you need as it depends on how often you use your fire, how long, whether your heating is supplemented and whether you run a Chippy. Our advice - more is better. Wood suppliers may themselves run short of stocks during winter and if you have too much you can always sell it on when you leave.

Chippy Wood
Chippy wood can be purchased from Echopine in Taupo. It is suggested that wood be ordered during the summer months. Contact Tom Pedersen 0274 746 342.
Chippy Wood/Slab Wood is also available all year and can be purchased from Rangipo/ Kaitoke Corrections. Defence vehicles only can be used i.e. MOGs. Arranging transport and uplift is your responsibility. For more information contact your unit RSM or Adj.

Firewood Suppliers
Please refer to the classified section of your local, free newspapers: the Ruapehu Bulletin and Central District Times, check out the Community Noticeboard or call in to the Community Services Office for alternative suppliers.

Freezing of Water Mains
To safeguard against burst pipes, tenants are required to turn off their water supply at the mains before going on holiday during winter, then ‘bleeding’ their taps. Also ensure your hot water cylinder is switched to electric (as opposed to chippy heated). If any difficulty is experienced, please contact the Transfield Service Centre on 387 5599 extn 5500 for assistance.

Freezing of Car Radiators
With severe winter conditions, radiator water in vehicles may freeze, damaging the radiator and/or engine block. The addition of sufficient anti-freeze to the radiator water will prevent damage by freezing. Local garages can provide anti-freeze liquid and will carry out checks on the density of the anti-freeze contained in radiators.

Roads When It Snows
When snow or ice has settled on roads within Camp and the housing area, no two wheel vehicles, either military or civilian, are to be used. It is also crucial that cars are parked only in marked parking areas. Do not park alongside street curbs as this prevents the snow clearing machines doing their job.

If Leaving your House for More Than 72 Hours
You are required to fill out a Vacant Married Quarters Check Form and give a copy to the Military Police and your unit/or JLSO. This applies to ALL houses in the housing area.

Household Insurance
Residents are advised to insure all their household effects against fire and theft. As tenants, residents are not required to insure the house.

Fire
In the event of a fire or any other emergency, telephone 111 from the housing area or 1-111 from within camp. A fire restriction notice goes out annually, usually for a period of 365 days. During the restricted period, permits are required for all open fires. This includes the Waiouru Defence Training Area, Waiouru Camp Housing Area and the Naval Housing Area known as Park Lane. Charcoal and gas barbecues in the respective housing areas are exempt but permits are required for hangis and braziers. Permits can be obtained from the Camp Fire Station (387 5599 extn 5540). From time to time it may become necessary to impose a total fire ban. In these circumstances no outside fires whatsoever will be permitted.

Smoke Detectors
Battery powered smoke detectors have been installed in all properties. When the battery reaches the end of its life, a low battery warning will be given in the form of an intermittent beeping. It is recommended batteries be replaced when you change your clocks for daylight saving. Smoke detectors also require the following simple maintenance to ensure their continued effectiveness:
- Every six (6) months open the grill covering the unit and gently vacuum clean, holding the nozzle half an inch from the interior
- Each month tenants should check the following and if any check is unsuccessful, you are required to contact Transfield Service Centre:
  - The alarm should sound upon pressing the test button
  - The alarm should sound upon smoke being blown into the grill
  - A small red light should flash behind the grill once every 30-60 seconds
  - If the light remains on or does not flash it may be faulty.
- Replacements for faulty detectors can be obtained from Transfield Service Centre.

Civil Defence
As with any location you may live in, it is advisable to develop a household plan for evacuating your house in case of an emergency and to know where your evacuation assembly point is (these are shown on the pull-out map in this book). There are two types of evacuation warnings in Waiouru, (1) immediate - a couple of hours warning and (2) deliberate - several days of warning. The usual fire alarm sound is one steady rise then fall. In the event of a civil defence alert, the siren will rise and fall continuously for a period of 30 minutes. After a short break the siren will resume again, repeating this process for as long as is required. Households should ensure they have a survival kit that has enough basics to last for three days. This should include 3 litres of water per person per day, canned or dried food, firewood/coal or gas for a barbeque, candles, matches, torch and batteries. Additionally, in case of evacuation, you should have a supply of medicines, clothing and have family documents easily accessible. There are rare occasions in Waiouru when you may get snowed in and power can be cut - always be prepared for these circumstances. When thinking about evacuations, don’t forget the needs of your animals.
